

In the last section of the Humor Prism, we investigate jokes which were popular in the United States from c. 1950 onwards. The authors of these sections interpret social meaning of the jokes involved and you have plenty of examples in the books. Well, almost plenty. These jokes are close to uncountable and come in endless variations on a theme. Use this list to supplement the assignments for next Monday and Thursday. Be warned...there's probably something to offend everyone here...but that's the point in this section of the book.

Best Helen Keller Jokes.

Helen Keller Jokes

Elephant Jokes

More Elephant Jokes

Sickipedia collection of sick jokes. (United Kingdom)

Sick Jokes at Funny Humor

Cruel Jokes at ZenHex

Polish Jokes

Polish Jokes at Polymath Systems

Ethnic jokes

Ethnic Jokes at Free Funny Jokes (Note subcategories in the right side bar)

The Politically Incorrect Ethnic Joke Book

Jewish Mother Jokes

Best Jewish Jokes in the World

Light Bulb Jokes

I thought it appropriate give you links to some jokes which just might apply to the old professor, too. Here they are.

Absent Minded Professor Stories.

Minnesota/Scandinavian Jokes